BELIEVES IN ADVERTISING

In the House of Commons on April 20, 1936, when the advisability of an extensive series of advertising of fish was up for discussion, ex-Premier L. B. Bennett is reported in Hansard as follows:

Success in advertising may be summarized, according to my observation, in two words: More Advertising. In other words, if it is done spasmodically it fails; if it is continuous and persistent it will succeed. Apart altogether from the mechanical attractions of the advertisement, and matters of that sort, I am directing my remarks, only to the question of how you can make advertising succeed, and so far as I know the only method by which it can succeed is by persistent vertising.

GOLF! GOLF!!

The Blairmore ladies lost to the Fernie ladies in their inter-club matches at Fernie on May 30th. Nine holes were played in the morning. Then a very nice luncheon was served in the clubhouse by the members of the Fernie Ladies' club. In the afternoon another nine holes were played. All the visiting ladies reported a very pleasant time.

The next ladies' competition will be played on Saturday (tomorrow). The mixed foursomes were held on May 27th, eighteen holes. The sweepstake winners were Mrs. K. Turner and A. McKay with the best net score, and Miss B. Sellen and W. H. Turner the best gross score.

On Sunday, June 7, the Lethbridge golfers will be entertained by the Crows' Nest Pass golfers here. Nineteen men and eight ladies are expected to make the trip.

WILL OPEN SEVENTH AVENUE RAILWAY CROSSING

Fifth Avenue crossing over the Canadian Pacific Railway right-of-way will be closed and a crossing opened for vehicular traffic at Seventh, without waiting for a decision from the ratepayers who were to vote on the change of crossings in the near future.

This decision was decided upon at the regular meeting of the council last Monday night, when C. M. Larbalestier, town secretary, read a letter to the councillors from the Canadian Pacific Railway, in which they stated that in view of the fact that the board of railway commissioners had sanctioned the closing of Fifth Avenue crossing the railway company were going ahead to make preparations to close it.

While no mention was made regarding a crossing at Seventh Avenue in the letter, the council were of the opinion that it was certain that Fifth Avenue crossing was to be closed and if another one was not opened there would be only one crossing to South Blairmore, and that at the east end of the town. As the railway company had given permission to open a crossing at Seventh Avenue, the council agreed that it was necessary to start work immediately.

MR. ABERHART AND THE NEWSPAPERS

It will cause no surprise to learn that Premier Aberhart wants to license the newspapers.

License means control. Mr. Aberhart wants to control the newspapers. He would delight in forcing them to print only what he wants them to print, to say only what he wants them to say. He would Russinize them to serve his own purpose, make propaganda sheets out of them.

Trouble with Mr. Aberhart is that he thinks he alone is right, that he never makes mistakes. We forgive him for holding that opinion after 30 or 40 years in the schoolroom where there was only one right answer, where there was no need for remembering there are two sides to every problem. The schoolmaster psychology comes to the fore in Mr. Aberhart's desire to dictate to the newspapers. A "free press" means nothing to him. We doubt if he has ever read the story to learn what lies behind.

What Mr. Aberhart forgets is that the newspapers are free because the people want them to be free, and the reason the people read them in ever-increasing numbers is because the people have confidence that the newspapers are not now abusing nor ever have abused their freedom.

Mr. Aberhart's talk of the newspapers and the money barons in the same breath is claptrap of the kind one hears from the lips of every soapbox orator from Hyde Park to Tokyo. It is the stock-in-trade of the Communist and the demagogue. Throw suspicion on the integrity of the newspapers, build up a case against them, prevent if possible the presentation of the other side of the people's business—that's the aim of those who would muzzle the press.

The world's progress is dependent on maintenance of a free press, and the free press will prevail long after Mr. Aberhart has joined the ranks of the forgotten politicians.—Lethbridge Herald.

The Crows' Nest Pass (Alberta) First Aid Meet, at Bellevue on Labor day, with W. E. G. Hall as president and M. H. THE FOUR DANGEROUS DRUGS

In addressing a youth gathering at Vulcan recently, Mayor Dave H. Elton, of Lethbridge, warned the young people, and older folks too, against four dangerous "drugs." Not drugs, such as chemists dispense, but "drugs" just as dangerous to the development of the mind and body, he explained. Public enemy number one was the worry "drug" and most of us take it in big doses. It is a sedative "drug." Worry hampers everyone's possibilities and must be avoided.

The second "drug" is that of hurry. It is a mean stimulant, said Mayor Elton, another thing to avoid. He spoke of the accidents that happen every day as a result of the use of this dangerous "drug." In continuing, he cited the drift "drug" as another sedative, being tricky and insidious. The shores of life are strewn with human driftwood showing the use of much of this "drug." It took faith, executive judgment and ability to overcome this sedative. There are the lifters and the leaners, he said, in explanation that leaders are made not born. One must be of service to mankind to know the joy in living. Life must have its outlet as well as inlet to avoid drifting.

The last "drug" of which Mr. Elton spoke, was the drop "drug," a dope that made you rest on your laurels. It made one soft and mushy on the outside and hard and intolerant on the inside, he said. In concluding his message, Mr. Elton told the young people that there was only one path to follow in face of discouragement—the path straight ahead. He emphasized the need of faith.

The address was delivered in Mayor Elton's inimitable style, a style that borders between prose and poetry. The message was received with enthusiastic applause.

A feature of the evening was the musical entertainment provided by the Vulcan high school orchestra, before and following the lecture. The orchestra played selections that won them two festival contests. All selections were well received.

THE KOOTENAI BROWN MEMORIAL

In honor of one of the most colorful figures in the early history of Alberta, a memorial cairn is to be erected at Waterton Park Sunday, July 5. John George "Kootenai" Brown, who will be honored by the memorial, was the original settler on the site of the present Waterton Lakes National Park, and when the federal park was known among those who were the first superintendent. He was universally known among those who were the first pioneers of the southern part of this province.

The federal government has recently set aside in perpetuity a plot of land within the park on which the memorial will be built. Contributions are now being sought towards the memorial cairn fund, which is in charge of Canon Middleton, of Cardston, who was one of the men instrumental in establishing the Waterton Lakes-Glacier Park area as a Canadian-American International Peace Park.

In comparison with most parts of the world, Alberta is woefully lacking in historical background and, more especially, in historical sites. Much of the early history of the west is slipping quickly into oblivion for lack of adequate recording. For this reason, and to pay tribute to an outstanding pioneer, the Kootenai Brown memorial is worthy of the fullest support.—Lethbridge Herald.

SOCIAL CREDIT CHIEF SLAMS MUD-SLINGING

EDMONTON, June 4.—Mud-slinging will not get the churches anywhere, declared Premier Aberhart today in replying to attacks made upon the government at the recent United Church conference here.

At the same time the premier expressed his disinclination to enter a controversy on the matter in these times.

A resolution by the United Church conference condemned the government for using the Lord's Day for partisan political propaganda, and also for imposing the Sales Tax upon the people.

"I have heard and other citizens have heard political sermons from United church pulpits," said the premier.

"Until the Alberta conference is able to control its own members, it is not wise to step into the realm of any other church and tell it what to do on Sunday.

"I am of the opinion that we have reached the day when religion must be made practical. People must be shown how the statements of the Scriptures are applicable to everyday problems, particularly in the economic realm. It surely is evident that there is a distinct difference between economics and politics.

"I wonder if the United Church conference would like to have the statements from their pulpits, discussed publicly by those of another denomination. It is my opinion that mud-slinging gets the churches nowhere," said the premier.

The president of General Motors Corporation received a total remuneration for his services in 1935 of $374,506. The vice-president received $374,475, and another vice-president $249,888. Gee, and they don't just know where the next meal is coming from.

Congratulations are due Mr. Charles Clark, publisher of the High River Times. He and his paper have been chosen for the "All Star Eleven" of North American weekly newspapers and editors, the only Canadian name in the list. An efficiency expert is all right, says a friend of ours, but he often lacks common horse sense. But any farmer knows that the two of them together will not pick any.

A negro was telling his minister that he had got religion. "Dat's fine, brothah; but is you sure you is getting a lay aside sin?" asked the minister. "Yessuh, Ah's done it already." "An' is you gwine to pay up all yoh debts?" "Wait a minute, pahson! You ain't talkin' religion now—you is talkin' business!"

The Lethbridge Herald on Friday last remarked: We hear a lot from Edmonton these days about the necessity of balancing the budget. But nine cabinet ministers ought to be able to work out some way of cutting a couple of million off departmental expenditures. It should be possible to get along with a little less government in a province of 800,000 people.

A young man noticed a ravel on the shoulder of his dancing partner, and pulled it. By the time he surrendered her to another partner, he had a ball of string in his hand, and threw it in the corner. The examination of the First Rangers of Blairmore Girl Guides' first aid class, instructed by Ed. Royle under the St. John Ambulance Association, took place Friday evening at the Anglican hall. Examiners were Dr. Reinhorn, of Bellevue; M. H. Congdon, of Blairmore; Richard M. Greenhalgh, of Coleman, with supervisor Ed. Royle. The following Guides submitted themselves for examination: Carlotta Fleming, Mabel E. Snod, Shirley Bannan, Margaret Cawsey, Edith Oakes, Wilma G. Wheatcroft, Florence L. Picard, Kathleen McDonald, Jean McDonald, Mrs. H. Pinkney.

There passed away at Bellevue on Saturday evening an aged and most highly respected resident of the town in the person of Mrs. Glover, aged 81 years. She was a native of England, coming with her husband and family to Canada in 1912, settling at Bow Island, where they resided till 1924. In that year, Mr. Glover predeceased her, shortly after which Mrs. Glover moved to Paasburg, to reside with her son Robert. She was the mother of fourteen children, six of whom predeceased her before leaving England. Two daughters and six sons still survive. In England there are Thomas, Albert, Herbert and Mrs. Dunn; in Canada, James at Taber, Robert and Frederick, of Bellevue, and Mrs. Fitzgerald in Quebec. The remains were laid to rest in the Bellevue cemetery on Tuesday afternoon.

Political Patronage

University Professor Advocates Change in Civil Service Methods

Prof. R. MacGregor Dawson, of the University of Saskatchewan, told the Canadian Political Science Association the two enemies of civil service efficiency in the Dominion were political patronage and the organization of the service itself.

To improve the service he suggested in a paper to the association's annual meeting an examination system that would debar poor candidates and select the best, a scheme of graduation which would induce the highest type of intelligence to try to enter, a plan of promotion which would allow exceptionally brilliant men to come to the top and a range of salaries providing a comfortable living.

Of about 62,000 positions in the government today only 33,000 or 53 per cent. are filled by the civil service commission, he said. Many parts of the service which could be brought easily in conformity with the merit system, such as the income tax branch, penitentiary service and the radio commission, did not come under the Civil Service Act.

Proves His Claim

Pioneer Resident Says Alberta's First Oil Found 67 Years Ago

Proof that the first crude oil was found in Alberta in November, 1879, 67 years ago, is held by William McCordell, well known pioneer resident of Banff.

Mr. McCordell produced a letter from Joseph Lake, now residing at Invermere, B.C. This letter stated that in November, 1879, he was managing the Carlin and Lake store in Anthracite, near Esauham. "Billy McCordell and Lafayette French," he states, "brought in crude oil from the mountains. It was sent to Ottawa to be assayed. It contained 95 per cent. lubricating oil and five per cent. vegetable matter."

Mr. McCordell also received a letter from Howard Sibbald of Banff, now in California, who stated he was in charge of the Scott and Leeson ranch, 10 miles south of Morley, in 1879. Mr. McCordell and the late Lafayette French brought in samples of crude oil to him and it was tested in a lamp.

Mr. McCordell stated the oil was found near Waterton Lakes. A company known as the Homestake Oil Company was formed with a capital of $10,000 to develop the finding. Unfortunately a salt water, instead of a crude oil, gusher was drilled. Then a prairie fire burnt down the derrick and the venture came to an end.

Shortly after the opening of the present century, the Rocky Mountain Development Company drilled a well at Waterton Lakes and the discovery of a considerable quantity of oil was claimed. At the present time a well is being drilled by Oil City Royalties, Limited, in the Waterton district.

New Filtration Method

May Replace Chloride As Water Purification For Swimming Baths

Microbes to keep bath water safe have been successfully experimented with by scientists in London. In a room above the Strand a London scientist has been watching a daily battle between microscopic armies—bacteria and protozoa, the latter always winning. This fact is the basis of a new filtration system for swimming baths.

Most methods of water purification for swimming baths, according to Edward H. Ellis, the scientist in question, rely on some killing agent such as chloride. The new method consists of syphoning the swimming bath water through a series of filters of special earthy material impregnated with cultures of protozoa—the natural enemy of bacteria.

One profession in Soviet Russia has successfully resisted the age of mechanization which has eliminated many age-old methods of work.

Floor polishers, who since the time of Catherine the Great have capered, one shoe on and one shoe off, continue to manipulate with the bare foot wax, brushes and polishing cloths. For their profession, many have developed a distinctive dance to impart the final bit of sheen. They successfully have prevented introduction of electrical polishing devices.

Fresh Air Seems Scarce

According to Figures Showing Pollution Breathed Into Lungs

Britons breathe, it has been computed, per breath about 13,000,000 coal-produced particles, 700,000 gasoline particles from automobile exhaust, 37,660 rubber-dust particles, 25,000 tobacco-ash particles. Proponents of greater government efforts for combating atmospheric pollution use such figures as propaganda, permitting the public to imagine what the inside of their lungs look like.

The trip she proceeded to "fall for her" romance dating from his rescue of the fair maiden. Their marriage plans were revealed while the two were cruising in Southern waters. A new picture of the "lucky lady" is shown above.

Returning A War Relic

Coast City Sends Back An Exquisitely Carved Font Cover

Responding to a request for return of all relics removed from historic St. Martin's cathedral, Ypres, Belgium, destroyed in 1915 by German gunfire, Victoria has forwarded an intricately carved font cover which stayed for several years in Christ Church cathedral in Victoria, B.C.

The Belgian church, noted for some exquisite carvings, was almost destroyed during the war, and many of its most valued pieces disappeared. After citizens of Ypres decided to rebuild the structure, an appeal was sent to all allied and central powers for return of any pieces carried away by opposing troops. Officials report hundreds have already been returned.

The oak font cover, five feet in height, appears to be very old and is elaborately carved by hand. It found its way to the coast city is not definitely known.

The last war was to end war. The next war will end everything.

New Theory For Longevity

Egyptian Thinkers Keeping Brain Well Rested Is Help

Learning shortens your life. That is the conviction of a 112 year old man in Cairo, Egypt. Aem Mohamed, a milkman, claims to have just completed 112 years and still milks his goats, and delivers the milk from door to door, as usual, often climbing several flights of stairs. His recipe for life is: Don't drink, don't smoke, don't indulge in pleasure, and, above all, don't tire your brain with learning. Mohamed enjoys three hearty meals daily, two of them composed of beans and the third of meat and vegetables. He has married only once. His wife is still alive. Her "baby," their youngest son, is aged 65.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 7

JESUS IN GETHSEMANE

Golden text: Not my will, but thine, be done. Luke 22:42.
Lesson: Luke 22:39-71.
Devotional reading: Isaiah 53:1-6.

Explanations And Comments

The Agony in the Garden, Luke 22:39-46. Last week our scene was in that Upper Room in Jerusalem where Jesus and his disciples held their last supper together. After a long farewell talk and final intercessory prayer, told only in the Fourth Gospel, the scene changes to the sorrowful walk across the Brook Kidron to the Garden of Gethsemane. "There is an awful silence in a sleeping wood, but never did the silence speak to a heart so still in its agony as to the One that was then seeking in Gethsemane a place of seclusion and prayer." To his disciples that tortured One said, "Pray that ye enter not into temptation," as he went apart from them a stone's cast. "Pathetic beyond the power of language to utter is the fact that even in Gethsemane, where our Lord had his own bitter cup to drink, his thought was of the temptations to which, in this hour of excitement and confusion, his own beloved disciples would be exposed (Reuben Thomas). Read the fuller account about the disciples in the 26th chapter of Matthew.

"Father, let this cup pass from me," Jesus prayed, and then he added, "Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done." "It has always seemed to me," writes Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, "that between those two prayers, there was even to the Perfect Son a new knowledge of the Father. Love a moment before seemed—if one may judge by the prayer—to be exacting a sacrifice, then, in a moment, the sacrifice seemed to melt into the exultation of the Father's will for his Son's immortal service to the world. And God revealed a new phase of his love."

And, too, exactly as he prayed, he earnestly; and his sweat became, as it were, great drops of blood falling upon the ground. After giving a long list of possible reasons for the prayer and the agony in Gethsemane, possibly the aim of the world, Papini adds these words to which all will subscribe: "But one still even in the true meaning of the words cried out by the Son to the Father, in the black loneliness of the olive grove, 'My Father, I am here!'"

And there appeared unto him an angel from heaven strengthening him. He had moments of difficulty in believing without any misgiving that his Father was looking upon that scene with sympathy and understanding. "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" was his cry, and those words must have represented but a fleeting struggle of the soul, we may be sure that they were spoken with intense feeling, that Jesus did really feel that he was being left to carry his load of disappointment and suffering alone. And here in Gethsemane came the strengthening assurance of his Father's love and care.

Cannot Be Tamed

Sea-Gulls Always Wild Unless Captured Right After Hatching

A sea-gull captured three or four days after hatching can never be tamed because its mother or other grown birds have taught it fear, Dr. John Tait, of McGill University, Montreal, told the biological section of the Royal Society of Canada in Ottawa. Dr. Tait said the parent or other adult gull communicates to the young by a "roundabout mode of conditioning" a fear-complex which it never loses.

A gull taken just after hatching, he said, may grow up without fear of man, but "the repeated warning call of the adult produces and maintains in the young bird an instinctive characteristic reaction of apprehension, in which state it is ready on one single experience to become permanently fear-conditioned to any animal recognized as strange."

London Zoo Is Lucky

Has Received Four Sacred Cave Snakes From Malaya

Four Sacred Cave snakes have arrived at the London zoo from Malaya. Their kind has never been shown in captivity before, and their capture was an astonishing adventure.

"The snakes are five feet long, and marked by two white stripes head to tail. They came from the Batu caves in Johore. These caves are little, subterranean passages, the entrance to which is guarded by long native temples, whose priests never allow strangers to enter the caves."

Coleman Hot Plate Cooks with Air!

YOUR GARDEN

General garden insect enemies are divided into two groups—those that eat holes in the foliage and those that suck out the juices. For the first-named group is "unusually applied, while the suckers are attacked with a burning spray which penetrates at first by a willing or unwilling of the foliage. For sucking pests, chief of which are the aphids or plant lice, spray with white oil soap, a quarter pound of soap to a gallon and a half of water: nicotine sulphate or "black man" (oil) is another repellent secured from a reliable seed store. When fungus attacks the plants, the foliage usually turns yellow or brown, or white spots like mildew cover the leaves. Fungus on plant and soil must be kept away. Spraying with Bordeaux Mixture or dusting with specially mixed "black man" (oil) and sulphur dust will also protect hollyhocks and phlox from rust. If applied when the disease first shows itself, an ordinary tin can with a top perforated like a salt shaker makes a good duster. Cut worms or grubs in the soil may be kept from poisoning by spreading "sweetened bran mixed with Paris Green" or special mixtures about the plants.

The more tender sorts of vegetables—cucumbers, melons, etc.—will not start to grow until the soil is warm. All these warm weather vegetables prefer rich, open soil and any members of the melon family take special delight in hot, sandy soil, though it must be made rich. There are special seeds for hot weather and third sowings of nearly all standard vegetables such as beets, carrots, corn, beans, etc.; first celery is set out now.

Captain Hosken Awarded Shield For The Fourth Time

Signal honor was paid Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., commander of R.M.S. Empress of Canada, when, at a ceremony on board his ship, at Vancouver, B.C., and his crew were presented with the Captain Hosken Shield. This is emblematic of superiority on company ships on the Pacific in all matters pertaining to life-saving, including discipline, upkeep and maintenance of life-saving gear, organization with regard to control of passengers, operation of lifeboats, fire drill, and other similar matters.

The shield is awarded yearly, and has been the trophy of efficiency on ships of the fleet since it was first presented in 1929 by Sir Edward W. Beatty. Captain Hosken has now won it four times. He won it in 1929, when he was commander of R.M.S. Empress of Russia, and held it for two subsequent years. Then it went to Capt. L. D. Douglas of R.M.S. Empress of Japan for three years, and now Captain Hosken has won it back. It is the first time it has gone to R.M.S. Empress of Canada, of which Captain Hosken has been in command for the past year.

The presentation was made by K. J. Burns, port manager, during the course of a luncheon on board the ship.

Old Custom Affected

Because Chinese are losing their faith in the efficacy of eggs to prevent a sore back, the poultry industries are seeking a government mandate to proclaim the festival of Lih Hsia, or "beginning of summer" as "national egg eating day." Eggs have been a special food of the Chinese for centuries. Disappearance of old beliefs, however, is affecting the custom.

Want To Fight Like Men

Turkey's young girls, ranging in age from 16 to 20, are ready to fight and they want to fight like men. In a petition to the Ministry of Education they asked that military education be given them and that they be treated the same as the boy recruits, fulfilling their compulsory military service.

SHOULD IT BE SUPPRESSED?

There has appeared on the screen in England a film calculated to drive home the "horrors of war" which quotes the common man in opposition to war. Such an impression has the picture made in opposition to war that the Marquis of Creve, movie censor, has banned the film in the fear that it may prevent enlistment. The attempt at suppression has aroused public resentment led by R. G. Wells, who declares that "it would be outrageous if a film of such importance were suppressed."

If the film in its portrayal of war is faithful to fact and an unfettered presentation of it, there need be no shrinking from the accuracy of it. No doubt behind the censor is the shadow of the munition makers who do not hesitate to wade through the blood of their fellow countrymen in order to rake in huge profits. It is surely not against British-law to protest against war by either speech or screen.—Milverson Star.

"SCRATCH MY BACK AND..."

As we write by the side of the kitchen window, a pair of old horses are standing near the fence scratching each other's backs in a lusty fashion. As every lady knows, men also engage in this pastime.

Of course they do it in a more dignified way than their four-legged servants, and a notable example of this was presented to the world soon after the annexation of Ethiopia by the Italians.

Mussolini proclaimed the Italian king emperor of the conquered territory, and Il Duce, in turn, was given a high-sounding title. Doubtless this form of scratching will continue until one of the pair gets a bit rough.

Then, like the old nags, they'll take to biting and kicking and thereby end the fun.—Ex.

MY COUNTRY 'TIS OF THEE

Rich in poverty, of thee I sing; a beautiful spot this Claresholm district, close to the high mountains, and closer to the high taxes. Just lovely low valleys, and lower wages; great big crooked rivers and crooked statesmen. (This doesn't apply to our M.L.A.) Big lakes, big strikes, little drinks, little pumpkins, but big men with pumpkin heads; silver streams that gambol in the mountains and pious politicians that gambol in the night time; fertile plains of wheat that lie like a sheet of water, and thousands of newspapers that lie like hell, a country that still retains its original freaks, cutworms, Indians, grasshoppers and "social creditors"; big granaries filled with wheat and crowds of people, anxious and starving for want of it; great big souls made in the image of God, with the devil inside as renters. But in spite of it all I love it, and intend to live in it as long as petticoats are an institution. 'Cause why? I might get into a worse place. I think my parents must have had a vision of these times when they named me Freddie.

—F. Palmer, Claresholm.

It has been announced from Edmonton that gift nights at theatres in Alberta are to be banned forthwith.

A chopping house and grain elevator at Bonnybrook, Alberta, were destroyed by fire on Sunday morning, the loss being estimated at around $35,000. The buildings were the property of P. Burns' ranches. The fire was caused by lightning.

Here and There

Vancouver is holding this year the Golden Jubilee celebration of its founding in 1886. Some of the features, municipal included, sports events of all kinds, music, pageants, a special performance of Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" in Stanley Park, a performance of Havelock, an Indian village, a Havelock village, special decorations and illuminations all over Vancouver. Celebrations will reach their peak in the first ten days of July.

At the annual Burns dinner held at the Empress Hotel, Victoria in February at which over 500 Burns lovers took part, the royal Scotch haggis was brought over from Vancouver and was carried in a steamer boat on a silver platter by Miss Owen D'war and piped around the Empress dining room by Pipe-major Donald Cameron. Greetings were received from South Africa, Australia, the United States and London, England.

Stating emphatically that success depends on luck, Captain Charles M. Hudson, D.S.O. and Bar, R.N.R., commander of Q-boat for two years of the war, had a hard job convincing the Active Club International at Hotel Vancouver recently of the entire truth of the statement. They thought that skill, courage and foresight had something to do with success after hearing some of his adventures.

Recently the Royal York Hotel, Toronto held a Cherry Pie Contest wide open to everybody and gave ten prizes in order of merit and the good housewives of the Queen City were all winners. The judges of course had their work cut out for them—or may be they did a bit of cutting for themselves.

"It is a pity every British Columbia business man can not find it possible to visit the Far East, particularly Japan," said C. A. Cotterell, assistant general manager, British Columbia, for the Canadian Pacific Railway, just back from a trip to the Orient. Mr. Cotterell thought a visit would be an education, enlightening and of inestimable value in a practical sense.

Two prominent British residents in Kobe are fighting a losing battle against a cedar pine tree which they fear is about to fall on their residence, according to passengers arriving in Victoria recently on the Empress of Japan. They can't get it felled because it is believed if that is done, a pestilence will strike the district.

"The Canadian Pacific's biggest liner, the 42,000-ton Empress of Britain, to be designated 'cabin' ship following the abolition of 'first class' designation by the North Atlantic Conference, will continue in operation as a high class, high speed, de luxe liner," William Baird, steamship passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific, said recently.

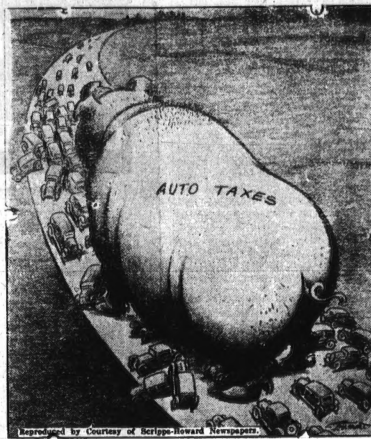

At one end of the Dominion the Eastern International Dog Sled Derby at Quebec, Feb. 20-22 hit the high spots in winter sport and at the other end was the Empress Golf Tournament at Victoria, February 17-22, both sponsored by the Canadian Pacific Railway and each showing the versatility of the Canadian climate, since both were indubitably and entirely successful.

Ski-ing has reached unprecedented levels this winter with an average of 5,000 skiers taking week-end trips from Montreal to nearby mountain resorts all season and with similar figures available from all over the Dominion.

Aberhart now proposes to license newspapers. Hope he doesn't mean by that that he will cancel the license and refuse a paper to operate that doesn't voice itself in line with his programme. We doubt if any more than one paper in Alberta will ever submit to a dictatorship.

EDDIE, THE AD MAN

AY, A FELLOW FROM DENVER TELLS ME THERE ARE MORE THAN TWENTY MOUNTAINS IN COLORADO HIGHER THAN PIKES PEAK! AND YET SOME FOLKS SAY I DON'T PAY TO ADVERTISE!

Commencing Monday last, June the 1st, the burden of interest upon the people of Alberta would be relieved at the rate of approximately $8,000 a day, declared Hon. E. C. Manning, provincial secretary and minister of trade and industry, on Sunday last.

According to an advertisement in The Calgary Albertan, there are still some 28,000 shares in the Albertan Publishers Limited being offered at 5% cumulative preferred par value of $25.00. Some folks are just wondering if they should take a chance on that stock in view of what has happened Alberta bonds.

An English golfer, holidaying at a Scottish resort, observed an elderly native walking on the course each day. One day the visitor said to the starter: "Who is that old fellow with a beard who is always strolling along alone?"

"Oh, ay," said the starter, "that'll be Auld Wullie. He lost a new ball at the fourth in 1918."

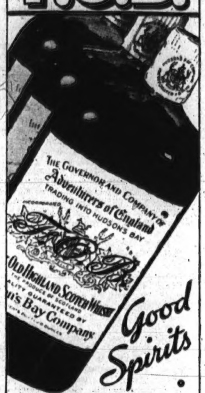

Little Tommy had gone to bring in the kittens. His father, hearing a shrill meowing, called out: "Don't hurt the kittens, Tommy!"

"Oh, no," said Tommy, "I'm carrying them carefully by the stems."

Letter from dentist: "Dear Madam, unless the denture you had from me is paid for without delay, I shall be obliged to insert the following advertisement in the local paper: Excellent set of false teeth for sale. May be seen at any time at Mrs. Smith's, 5 De'one Terrace."

An exchange remarks: Italy went wild with enthusiasm over the victory at Addis Ababa. We cannot imagine the negro population of America going wild with enthusiasm if Joe Louis licked a white fourteen-year-old schoolboy, who had never been trained in the manly art of self-defense.

Here and There

Barnwell, Alta., sets this year's record for the first official report on work on the lag, according to a memo received March 19 by the Agricultural Department of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Winnipeg. The earliest last year was from Taber, Alta., which has held the record for five years, on March 21.

Alfred S. McKay, recently elected president of the Southern Alberta Pioneers and Old-Timers' Association, is one of the two surviving members of the survey party which charted the route of the Canadian Pacific Railway across prairies and mountains in 1880-1885.

Interviewed at Victoria recently, W. M. Neal, vice-president of western lines, Canadian Pacific Railway, stated that he anticipated one of the biggest travel years in recent Canadian history. There had been, he said, a substantial improvement in passenger travel business last year which is expected to continue this year.

Changes in hotel management in western Canada are announced by H. F. Mathews, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotel system as follows:—T. E. Chester, manager Hotel Vancouver, appointed assistant general manager of the company's hotels in western Canada, succeeding A. E. Robertson, resigned; Colin F. Pratt, manager Palliser Hotel, Calgary, becomes manager Hotel Vancouver with W. J. Mylert, succeeding Mr. Pratt as manager of the Palliser.

Vancouver Island, known as the historical cradle of the Pacific Northwest, is to be featured this summer by a special cruise of the Princess Norah, of the Canadian Pacific B.C. service, which will make a complete circuit of the island, leaving Vancouver at 2 p.m. July 13, for a seven day trip in the paths of the early explorers.

During the winter season just closed, there was witnessed the greatest step forward in ski-ing travel ever recorded. Over 51,000 more than a fifth greater than last year, made journeys over the week-end from Montreal to ski territory in the Laurentians, the mountain paradise to the north of Montreal thoroughly covered by Canadian Pacific Railway. Many came from cities in the Eastern United States to enjoy the sport.

Nine weeks have been named and arranged for Vancouver's Golden Jubilee celebrations proper this summer but the festivities will cover the whole season and are expected to attract visitors from all over the world. One of the high lights will be the re-enacting of the arrival of the first Canadian Pacific train half a century ago.

Thirteen short European cruises from British ports will be made between May and October by the Canadian Pacific liners Montreal and Moncton this year. The Baltic and the Mediterranean will be covered extensively in these voyages.

Dr. A. H. Compton, physics research expert, recently returned from a trip to Honolulu on S. S. Aorangi, after studying activities of the cosmic ray in the southern hemisphere. A specially constructed house on the liner's after-bridge contained the delicate apparatus for the purpose of securing more data on the little-known but ever present ray during the ship's Antipodean trip.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

THE COLLEGE TRACK MEET

Dramatic action and pictorial value were both captured in these smartly taken amateur snapshots. For the pole vault picture a K-1 filter was used to accentuate the pictorial value of the clouds.

FOR pictures of highly dramatic and pictorial interest take your camera to a college or athletic club track meet this spring. Here is shown desperate competition in speed, skill, strength and endurance with breath-taking finishes in foot races and thrilling efforts in jumping, offering a wide choice of material. Also, there is displayed for your lens the youthful human body in the perfection of its muscular development.

Any kind of camera can be used for certain "shots" at the meet, but those with high speed shutters naturally are best for the real action. In any case, for the fast action shots, the camera should be loaded with super-sensitive film and the shutter set at a speed that will catch the particular action being taken. Then consider light conditions and set the diaphragm opening in the lens consistent with light and shutter speed.

The most thrilling pictures at a track meet are the finish of the 100 yard dash and the last jump of the 220 yard hurdles where frequently the position of the runners is a matter of inches. Here are open to speed and supreme effort. But first get a picture of the start of a race. Of course, you can't get both the start and finish of the same race, but the start of one of the preliminary heats will do. Get in position beside the track for an angle shot showing the row of contestants as they crouch at the mark. See that you have them all in the picture. Then watch for the starter to raise his gun. Fire at the same instant he does and you should catch them just rising to leave the mark. This is a picture that can be snapped with an ordinary camera if you are not too near. Then try for pictures at the finish line. At close range a fast shutter speed is necessary, else a flying leg or arm is likely to be blurred. With the ordinary camera, set the shutter at its greatest speed and the lens at its widest opening, then take a position 10 to 15 yards diagonally in front of the line, and depend upon an enlargement from part of the negative to show the action to good advantage. The faster your shutter the closer you may get. Most any action of which the human body is capable can be stopped at 1/500 second from any angle but it is better for such a picture as this to shoot at an angle wide enough to cover all the foremost runners, because it makes a more dramatic picture. Much action can be stopped at slower speeds, even 1/100 or 1/50 second, if the angle is right and you are far enough away.

In taking pictures of jumps, remember that there is always an instant of pause at the highest point of the jump. If you time the snap for this instant, you can usually "freeze" the action even without an ultra-fast shutter. Another striking picture is an angle shot upward of a pole vaulter just as he clears the bar. If there are clouds against which his body will be outlined, it is worth while to clap on a sky filter before you shoot.

A Moral Renaissance

In a world riven with fear and mistrust, with greed, hatred and suspicion rampant between individuals, between economic, political and social groups and between nations, there must be much inward searching of souls, much communing of hearts in an effort to find the cause of all this strife in the hope that thereby a remedy may be found and once again nations may live in peace and people may pursue the path of progress with hope and confidence in the future.

That there is much travail, seething and unrest at home and abroad no one can gainsay, and until some key has been found which will unlock the gate to peace and prosperity, there can be no assurance of widespread happiness and contentment.

What is this key, millions of people are asking themselves and asking one another as they view with dismay the ruffled waters of a troubled humanity?

Perhaps the answer is to be found in the statement made in the British House of Lords on March 19, 1936 by the Marquess of Salisbury, actor of the famous prime minister of the same name in the late Victorian era, when he said:

"The cause of the world's state is not economic; the cause is moral. . . If I may use a phrase which is common in a great movement which is taking place in this country and elsewhere (The Oxford Group) what you want are God-guided personalities, which make God-guided nationalities, to make a new world. All the other ideas of economic adjustments are too small really to touch the centre of the evil."

If such a statement were made from the pulpit it would probably be regarded by many as more or less of a commonplace, something to be expected from such a source, but when it is made by a peer of the realm in such an institution as the House of Lords of Great Britain, it has more arresting and significant effect and serves to emphasize what might be considered a platitude if uttered by others elsewhere.

The minds of many great leaders are being directed in this channel as is evident from recent utterances of other great men whose words, whether their political or economic creeds are accepted, inspire serious thought and consideration.

A similar idea was expressed about the same time by President Roosevelt of the United States when he said:

"No greater thing could come today to our land than a revival of the spirit of religion—a revival that would sweep through the homes of the nation and stir the hearts of men and women of all faiths to a reassertion of their belief in God and their dedication to His will for themselves and for their world. I doubt if there is any problem—social, political or economic—that would not melt away before the fire of such a spiritual awakening."

Further testimony in support of this sentiment comes from Roger Babson, founder of the Babson Statistical organization, whose prophecies of future trends based on statistical data are regarded as authoritative over the entire continent. Mr. Babson recently said: "I expect a business revival, but only a spiritual awakening among the people can make it enduring."

These and other authorities and leaders in many countries of the world are unanimous in their opinion that before there can be a change in the national and international outlook it is essential that the viewpoint be changed and that, in effect, a moral renaissance is necessary for the national viewpoint can be none other than that of the individuals which constitute it.

It might perhaps be said: What is the use of Canadians adopting an unselfish or a lofty moral viewpoint so long as the peoples of other countries exemplify a diametrically opposed outlook? Such a restricted conception of purpose and duty could only serve to delay the consummation of the peace, concord and prosperity which the great majority desire to see. Reform and improvement must first come from within and spread outwards like the ripples on the water from the cast stone.

Whether one agrees or not with the doctrines of the Oxford Group movement, one cannot but recognize that when they draw attention to the fact that there must first be a change in the individual before there can be a changed national viewpoint, they are hitting the bulls-eye.

Not Given Much Credit

But Wives Of Early Western Settlers Did Their Part

First white woman to the plains of Western Canada was Marie Galbreath, who journeyed to the Red River in 1807 and later as far west as Edmonton, said E. A. Corbett, local historian, in an address at Saskatoon.

Talking on "Early Women of Western Canada," the speaker remarked early fur traders were not ably reticent in giving credit to the women who accompanied them into new lands.

Mr. Corbett referred to the wife of David Thompson, one of the west's earliest explorers. Mrs. Thompson, he said, was a half-breed girl born at Ile a la Crosse in 1785, daughter of Patrick Small, one of the first white traders on the Churchill River. David Thompson married the girl when she was 14 years of age, and from then on she was his constant companion.

The speaker regretted Alexander Mackenzie had left little record of the part his wife played in his northern explorations.

"It is unfortunate," he continued, "that we know so little of the wives of the Selkirk Settlers, of such white women as the wife of Factor Rowland, who with her husband made old Fort Edmonton famous for its hospitality during the early years of the last century."

Asphalt In Petroleum

New Process May Make It Available For Paving Material

Oil wells which supply the gasoline to move vehicles were pointed out today as a new source of paving material over which to move them.

All petroleum contains asphalt, but much of it has not been utilized for paving because of impurities. By a new vacuum process of extraction, demonstrated at the International Petroleum Exposition, pure asphalt falls like rain out of a cloud of vaporized petroleum. The still in which this is done was invented by Dr. Sidney Born, director of petroleum research at the University of Tulsa. The stills are towers made of heavy steel, 40 to 60 feet high and five to 22 feet in diameter.

In the interior of the towers are almost perfect vacuums. Into them is run petroleum from which gasoline and kerosene have been extracted. The liquid is shot into the vacuum tower at 6,500 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature at which it instantly explodes into a cloud of vapor. Out of this vapor the asphalt falls completely pure in a coal black rain.

Collars Replace Riband

Holders Of Certain Decorations Must Change When Ordered

Holders of certain orders wore their "collars" when the King held the second levee of his reign at St. James' Palace. That was because the levee coincided with the birthday of Queen Mary, and notices announcing it bore the footnote: "N.B.—May 26 is collar day."

Collar days—there were 35 last year—are days on which, if decorations are worn, the riband of the Garter, the Thistle, the Bath, St. Michael and St. George, the Royal Victorian Order, and certain other orders is replaced by the collar of the order.

It is laid down in court regulations that collars must not be worn after sunset, except by the King's special command, so that they are rarely seen at public dinners or receptions. The collar—with the badge of the order suspended from it—is worn under the shoulder straps or epaulettes of uniforms, fastened with white satin bows, 1½ inches wide, at either side.

New Northern Sea Route

Navigators Of Soviet Have Made Mariners' Dreams Come True

A new sea route has been opened by Soviet navigators after three years' preparatory work. The Russian cargo vessels have succeeded in establishing a route to the Far East along the northern coasts of Europe and Asia. Such a way has been the dream of mariners for centuries, though 10 years ago Nansen declared the idea to be impossible. An icebreaker fleet placed along the route has kept the channels open. More than 100 ships of the Soviet mercantile marine have since winter sailed along this route of the ice without a single mishap. Five radio stations keep vessels informed of weather and ice conditions.

Get Practical Training

High School In Jacksonville, Florida, Has Splendid Plan

In Jacksonville, Florida, high school boys and girls are getting training for future jobs in the community at the same time they attend school. They go to school part of the day and the other part they spend in the department store, advertising office, broadcasting station, theatre, hotel, tearoom, telephone office, learning practical work right on the job. Since the inauguration of the "Jacksonville Plan" about two years ago, 86 per cent. of the vocational pupils have secured jobs upon graduation, and the plan is spreading to other cities of the south and west. The majority of the boys and girls leaving high school today cannot go to college, yet their training is directed toward that goal. When they apply for a job, the employer asks: "What can you do?" The answer is, "I don't know, but I can try anything." The Jacksonville graduate says: "I have had two years' experience in a bank" or in an automobile mechanic's shop, or in an advertising office, or in a telephone exchange, or in the community—Christian Science Monitor.

Admiral Of Yacht Squadron

King Edward Has Office First Held By Edward VII.

The King has become Admiral of the Royal Yacht Squadron, perhaps the most exclusive club in the world. Edward VII. was the first holder of the office of admiral, inaugurated at his accession in 1901. The club itself was established in 1812.

A story circulated that the famous royal racing cutter Britannia is to be sunk to spare her indignity of the ship-breakers yard. However, enquiries showed this report incorrect. The King has given instructions that the sails and rigging of the craft be sold, but the remainder of the equipment is to be stored and no instructions have been given regarding the hull. The Britannia was built in 1893 for Edward VII. when he was Prince of Wales. The famous cutter won 231 first prizes and 129 other awards in 625 races in the course of 43 years of racing.

Future Of Quintuplets

Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse Hopes They Will Become Normal Young Women

Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse hopes the Dionne quintuplets will become just as normal young women as girls born singly rest largely now on the women to be entrusted with the education of the famous babies who are now two years old. Admitting he had few fears left about the babies' health, Dr. Dufosse said he and the other guardians will shape the babies' lives until they are 19.

Canadians Do More Phoning Than Any Other People

Canadians do more telephoning than any other people in the world. Statistics released at Montreal show every man, woman and child in Canada held 2134 telephone conversations last year. Need More Scholarships

More Opportunity Required For Bright Students Without Means

Dr. R. C. Wallace, newly-appointed principal of Queen's University, stated at Ottawa that Canada needed more scholarships for her students. Dr. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, succeeds Dr. W. Hamilton Fyfe, who accepted principalship of Aberdeen University. It should be possible for a student, irrespective of means, if he has the mental ability, to go right through school and college, said Dr. Wallace.

Regarding positions for university graduates, Dr. Wallace said: "People to-day are realizing more and more the importance of trying to help the trained person and many businessmen are recognizing this and doing all that lies in their power to prevent the trained person from going to waste."

"Sports have a real value in their correct place," he said. "We must remember that students do not go to the university for sports. That is not why universities were founded."

Known As Electric Man

English Farmer Can Take 150 Volts Without Feeling It

Invalided out of the British army as a hopeless cripple after an attack of rheumatic fever, T. Lintott, a farmer of Teynham, England, has become known as "the electric man." After leaving the army he threw away his crutch, mounted a motorcycle and learned to ride unaided. Since then he has not needed the crutch.

Auguste was born a normal elephant, but suddenly stopped growing, and is a dwarf to this day. He arrived in a crate labelled: "Fragile; don't turn upside down."

Was Noted Explorer

Harry Whitney, Of New York, Dies In Montreal Hospital

Harry Whitney, of New York, noted explorer and big game hunter, died in hospital at Montreal recently. He was born in 1873.

In 1909 and 1910 he was the centre of a controversy about discovery of the north pole. Mr. Whitney had gone north with Admiral Peary and in 1909 both Admiral Peary and Dr. Frederick A. Cook returned from the Arctic and both claimed discovery of the north pole.

Doubt was cast on Dr. Cook's claims, and Mr. Whitney entered the controversy. He said he had gone hunting while with the Peary expedition and met Dr. Cook, who left instruments, clothing and other effects with him which Whitney cached.

He said Peary refused to take them aboard his vessel, the Roosevelt.

When the controversy broke it was intimated Mr. Whitney had destroyed Cook's records or had purposely left them behind. Mr. Whitney made only one statement, that Dr. Cook had told him of reaching the north pole and had sworn him to secrecy.

Mr. Whitney returned to the Arctic in three successive summers and continued to be a member of parties which went to the Arctic with Bartlett until 1930.

Reproduction Of Old Shop

The shop is a reproduction of a store opened in 1827, and is furnished with counters, desks, a safe and a stove, some of which were used in the last century. Merchandise of 100 years ago is displayed.

Among the attractions on exhibition are the embroidered silk wedding hose worn by a bride and a bonnet by Kaiser Wilhelm II. of 1847 made of fabric from a priest's robe in the 16th century.

Hail Selassie Is Considering Palace On Mount Of Olives

A palace on the Mount of Olives built by an emperor now in exile may become the permanent home of another fugitive sovereign.

Hail Selassie, who fled before the Italian armies, may make his residence in the Kaiserhof palace built by Kaiser Wilhelm II. for his wife, the Empress Augusta Victoria, after their visit to Jerusalem at the end of the last century, it was reported. At that time Palestine was part of the Turkish Empire.

The Negus recently visited the palace, which is now a monastery.
